the name hershey is synonymous the world over with only the sweetest associations a philanthropic self made millionaire a bucolic pennsylvania farm town and of course chocolate as milton hershey amassed his fortune in the early 1900s from the colossally successful hershey chocolate company he put it back into the community and nowhere was this generosity more visible than in the founding of the milton hershey school intended as a haven for fatherless orphan boys the school took in young boarders with the intention of instilling them with christian values a strong work ethic and the promise of a better future but all was not what it seemed the chocolate trust tells a different history of the milton hershey school a story of children who worked the farms as indentured pupils and who were often mistreated or violated by those on staff it tells the story of a trust that has raked in billions of dollars in endowments dollars that are steered away from the intended beneficiaries the children and it looks at the recent history of the school and a decade that has seen more dropouts than graduates bob fernandez s riveting and sobering account of the milton hershey school uncovers how funds were diverted from the school and put toward the multimillion dollar hershey medical center a luxury golf course and an expansion of hershey entertainment all while state officials and trust businessmen claimed that there just weren t enough poor children in america to help through shrewd reporting and original accounts the chocolate trust makes it clear that the legacy of the milton hershey school has made hershey pennsylvania far from the sweetest place on earth book jacket touts is a historical account of the troubled formation of a colonial labor market in the gulf of guinea and a major contribution to the historiography of indentured labor which has relatively few reference points in africa the setting is west africa s largest island fernando po or bioko in today s equatorial guinea 100 kilometers off the coast of nigeria the spanish ruled this often ignored island from the mid nineteenth century until 1968 a booming plantation economy led to the arrival of several hundred thousand west african principally nigerian contract workers on steamships and canoes in touts enrique martino traces the confusing transition from slavery to other labor regimes paying particular attention to the labor brokers and their financial logistical and clandestine techniques for bringing workers to the island martino combines multi sited archival research with the concept of touts as lumpen brokers to offer a detailed study of how commercial labor relations could develop shift and collapse through the recruiters own techniques such as large wage advances and elaborate deceptions the result is a pathbreaking reconnection of labor mobility contract law informal credit structures and exchange practices in african history this account of indian indentured labour in mauritius over a period of forty years makes an important contribution to the study of labour migration investigates the relatively little studied but growing field of the experiences of east indians in the caribbean from their arrival in 1838 to the end of indentureship in 1920 cover monograph on historical aspects of indian migrant workers recruited under indenture labour contracts to work in fiji from 1879 to 1916 based on interviews covers housing food and health services employment and labour inspection on plantations cultural factors etc and includes a form of agreement for intending immigrants references this collection of essays on indian women is an important contribution to both indian historiography and feminist studies the book covers such topics as the hindu widow s remarriage act of 1856 female infanticide property rights social welfare systems and the struggle for the right to vote
