a top 100 satirical short story the nose by nikolai gogol the nose is a satirical short story by nikolai gogol written between 1835 and 1836 it tells of a st petersburg official whose nose leaves his face and develops a life of its own critics note that the story s title in russian nos is the reverse of the russian word for dream son as the unreliable narrator himself notes the story contains much that is highly implausible while an earlier version of the story ended with kovalyov waking and realizing that the story was indeed a dream without the awakening however the story becomes a precursor of magical realism as an unreal element is woven into a realistic narration peace also notes that some critics have interpreted the story as referring to a castration complex the removal of kovalyov s nose and its developing a mind of its own threaten both his chances of acquiring a position of power and of being a success with women in russia a version has appeared which substituted for the word nos so that the reader would be inclined to interpret it as khui the russian taboo word for penis it can be said that kovaliov equates the loss of his nose with castration emasculation and impotence to a certain degree at the end the story drifts away and it appears gogol is talking directly to the reader it is never explained why the nose fell off in the first place why it could talk nor why it found itself reattached by doing this gogol was playing on the assumptions of readers who may happily seek
