a theology for a mediated god introduces a new way to examine the shaping effects of media on our notions of god and divinity in contrast to more conventional social scientific methodologies and conversations about the relationship between religion and media dennis ford argues that the characteristics we ascribe to a medium can be extended and applied metaphorically to the characteristics we ascribe to god just as earlier generations attempted to comprehend god through the metaphors of father shepherd or mother as a result his work both challenges and bridges the gap between students of religion and media and theology
