this compelling account offers a unique insight into the modern islamic corporation this second volume of bryan palmer s history of canada covers 1890 to 1960 weaving together themes that include business labour politics and social history this account brings the experiences of indigenous peoples into the centre of the narrative canada experienced extraordinary growth during these decades notably after the second world war when many canadians quickly became far better off yet vast inequalities persisted indigenous peoples experienced ongoing and often worsening deprivation and ordinary people saw little or no real improvement in their lives these realities set the stage for the interplay of reform resistance and reaction that followed after 1960 palmer examines the continuing role of capitalism and colonialism in structuring canada in the period between 1890 and 1960 from capital s conflicts and fragile ententes with labour to the struggles of indigenous peoples and francophone canada and the changing role of canadian capital internationally relying on the work of scholars who have produced a vast academic literature on a wide range of topics in canadian history bryan palmer offers a new history of canada which reflects the knowledge and values of 21st century canadians the proliferation of social media has provided ideal conditions in which feelings of anger and frustration can be expressed and shared forming a deep pool of resentment that is being drawn upon and exploited by populist and authoritarian leaders in his new book joseph vogl shows how this dynamic is rooted in the fusing of finance capital and information in a new form of information capitalism that is reshaping the affective economy of our societies the capital accumulation strategies of powerful new platforms and social media are pushing people into fragmented opposing and conflictual communities where resentment is nurtured and grows the feelings of grievance and rejection generated by capitalism are redirected into attacks on migrants foreigners and others thereby deflecting their critical potential and bolstering the system that is their source it is the cunning of resentment that provides the key to understanding why despite the profusion of communication in our social media age global finance and information capital can be neither understood nor attacked as a totalizing power this brilliant analysis of the ways in which information capitalism is transforming the affective economy of our societies will be of great interest to anyone concerned with the forces that are shaping our societies today this book argues that media and capitalism no longer exist as separated entities and posits three reasons why one can no longer exist without the other firstly mass media have become indispensable to capitalism due to the media's ability to sell the commodities of mass consumerism media capitalism also creates pro capital attitudes among a target population and establishes an ideological hegemony thirdly media capitalism provides mass deception to hide the pathologies of capitalism which include mass poverty rising inequalities and the acceleration of global warming to illuminate this the book's historical chapter traces the emergence of media capitalism its subsequent chapters show how media capitalism has infiltrated the public sphere society schools universities the world of work and finally democracy the book concludes by outlining how societies can transition from media capitalism to a post media capitalist society large multinational corporations shape our lives to an enormous extent how is the growth power and significance of big business to be explained and understood focusing on the issues of ownership control and class formation corporate business and capitalist classes explores the implications of changes in the nature of big business which affect both the businesses themselves and the economic and political milieu in which these multinationals operate up to date empirical evidence is reviewed in a wide ranging comparative framework that covers Britain and the United States Germany France Japan and many other societies including emerging forms of capitalism in China and Russia unlike other specialist texts in the area corporate business and capitalist classes relates its concerns to issues of social stratification and class structure the first and second editions of the book under the title corporations classes and capitalism were enthusiastically received and the present edition reviews new theoretical ideas and empirical evidence that has emerged in the ten years since the second edition appeared the text has been completely re-written and re-structured and it relates its concerns to contemporary debates over disorganized capitalism and post industrialism these essays seek to broaden understanding by examining the company in a wider historical legal political and sociological context first published in 1985 corporations classes and capitalism raises some crucial questions how important are large multinational companies who really controls the economy is government policy able to influence business activities John Scott examines the transformation of industrial property over the last hundred years and through the use of extensive empirical data relates this transformation to the actual structure of control over business decision making the book considers the rival theories of industrial society and capitalist society and argues that neither provides a satisfactory account of the development of industrial capitalism building on these theories and the critical debates they have generated. John Scott develops an alternative model of corporate control through a constellation of interests. He argues that this new form of impersonal possession has emerged in Britain, America, Australia, and Canada but is not so strongly developed in other economies.
