this work is an important addition to the rather limited literature on the social history of china during the first half of the twentieth century it draws on abundant sources and studies which have appeared in the people s republic of china since the early 1980s and which have not been systematically used in western historiography china has undergone a series of fundamental political transformations from the 1911 revolution that toppled the imperial system to the victory of the communists all of which were greatly affected by labor unrest this work places the politics of chinese workers in comparative perspective and a remarkably comprehensive and nuanced picture of chinese labor emerges from it based on a wealth of primary materials it joins the concerns of new labor history for workers culture and shopfloor conditions with a more conventional focus on strikes unions and political parties as a result the author is able to explore the linkage between social protest and state formation literature survey and bibliography on the history of the labour movement in china from 1895 to 1949 comments on labour legislation working conditions conflicts trade unionism etc ilo mentioned deng zhongxia the organizer and leader of the guangzhou hong kong general strike of 1925 26 was one of china s foremost labor activists marxist intellectuals and the chinese labor movement is the first english language examination of deng s career and thought it extends into a wider assessment of the relationship between the chinese labor movement and the chinese communist revolution considering the conflicting interests of workers and marxist intellectuals and the differences between local and national concerns this book brings a radically new voice to the debate in the field of chinese politics and labor movement using a psychological and cognitive approach the author examines workers and activists everyday interpretation of the source of their problems their prospect of labor movements and their sense of solidarity the project shows how workers themselves have become a part of the apparatus of state repression and argues that chinese workers have not acquired sufficient cognitive strength to become the much hoped for agent for political change which hinders labor activism from developing into a sustainable social movement multidisciplinary in its approach the monograph provides analysis of chinese politics labor studies international political economy social movements and contentious politics jackie sheehan traces the background and development of workers clashes with the chinese communist party through mass campaigns such as the 1956 7 hundred flowers movement the cultural revolution the april fifth movement of 1976 democracy wall and the 1989 democracy movement the author provides the most detailed and complete picture of workers protest in china to date and locates their position within the context of chinese political history chinese workers demonstrates that the image of chinese workers as politically conformist and reliable supporters of the communist party does not match the realities of industrial life in china recent outbreaks of protest by workers are less of a departure from the past than is generally realized as the world s factory china exerts an enormous pressure on workers around the world many nations have had to adjust to a new global political and economic reality and so has china its workers and its official trade union federation have had to contend with rapid changes in industrial relations anita chan argues that chinese labor is too often viewed from a prism of exceptionalism and too rarely examined comparatively even though valuable insights can be derived by analyzing china s workforce and labor relations side by side with the systems of other nations the contributors to chinese workers in comparative perspective compare labor issues in china with those in the united states australia japan india pakistan germany russia vietnam and taiwan they also draw contrasts among different types of workplaces within china the chapters address labor regimes and standards describe efforts to reshape industrial relations to improve the circumstances of workers and compare historical and structural developments in china and other industrial relations systems contributors frederick scott bentley rutgers the state university of new jersey florian butollo friedrich schiller university germany anita chan university of technology sydney and australian national university chris king chi chan city university of hong kong yu bin chiu national pingtung university of education taiwan sean cooney university of melbourne mary huong thi evans rutgers the state university of new jersey navjote khara niagara college kevin lin university of technology sydney mingwei liu rutgers the state university of new jersey peter lund thomsen copenhagen business school and nottingham business school boy lüthje institute of social research frankfurt germany and sun yat sen university china and the east west center honolulu khalid nadvi university of manchester thomas nice australian indigenous mentoring experience tim pringle soas university of london katie quan university of california berkeley and sun yat sen university china susan j schurman rutgers the state university of new jersey
